

YOU MAY FISH SOON

The Trout Season Will Open on Sunday, May 1

GIVING ONE DAY'S ADVANTAGE

To the Ungodly Nimrods—The Game Warden Calls Attention to the State Law and Its Provisions.

Local fishermen who have laid plans to allure the speckled beauties so soon as the minions of the law shall relax their vigilance, will be interested in the following proclamation issued over the name and official title of the lord high guardian of the suckers and pumpkin seed abounding in the waters of Michigan:

"As the first day of May draws near a great deal of interest is manifested in the trout and grayling law, and the state warden's office has been deluged with letters asking if the open season begins on the first or second, and if permission can not be granted to fish on April 30, the first day of May this year falling on Sunday."

Statutory Prohibition.
Section 1 of the general fish laws—act No. 111 of 1889—prohibits the catching of "speckled trout, land-locked salmon, grayling or California trout, from the first day of September in each year until the first day of May following thereafter." Under the usual construction of statutes the first day of May would be included in the closed season during which it is unlawful to take these fish, see Sutherland on statutory construction, 137 and 2d Johnson's cases, 225. But an opposite view has been held, see 12 Ill. 302, and in the construction of penal statutes the most lenient view of the law must be taken. For this reason the catching of trout and grayling will be permitted on the first day of May, as the legislature evidently intended, and also on the first day of September, which was intended to be a part of the closed season, but was left in the open season by the careless wording of the section.

Sympathy for Church Folks

The state warden sympathizes with those who want an equal chance at the trout, but have conscientious scruples against fishing on Sunday. He has no power, however, to alleviate their distress, and must refer them to their pastors for consolation. With the Sunday laws the warden and deputies have nothing to do, but they will spare no effort to prevent as far as possible the catching of trout before the first of May. Every good citizen, and particularly those who appreciate the importance of preserving our fish, should assist in enforcing the law. Through the efforts of the state fish commission and under the protection of the law, trout have become plenty in many counties where they were not native. If the law is observed, they will be still more plentiful, and become of immense value to our citizens.

Vigilance will be Maintained.

But it is not right to compel some to observe a law without enforcing it upon all. Every person who takes trout even a single day before the open season is taking an unfair advantage of his fellow citizens, and no person should regard for him or discontinue to be an "informer" should enable him to escape punishment. There have been violations this spring, but usually, but the last week of April is always the worst, and the public, as well as the warden, should be on the alert for violations. Let everyone understand that all must have an equal chance, and that any violation that becomes known will be promptly reported, and the offender prosecuted.

CHAS. S. HAMPTON,
State Game and Fish Warden.
Petoskey, Mich., April 18, 1922.

ARRESTED FOR LIQUOR-SELLING.

The Chief Figure in the Van Vorhis Case Landed Into Court.

Frank Burch, the embryo detective of this city, who was a figure-head in the Van Vorhis divorce case last summer, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Marshal Judd on a charge of illegally retailing liquor at Clarksville, last January. He was arraigned before Commissioner McQuewan for examination and was held to the October term of the United States court under $200 bonds.

IOWA LEGISLATURE TAKES A HAND.

In Trying to Protect the People Against the Use of Ammonia and Alumina Baking Powders.

[Des Moines News.]

A bill for an act to prevent the adulteration of baking powder with ammonia and alum, has been introduced in both senate and legislature of this state, imposing proper penalties to enforce the law, etc.

Both branches having previously passed resolutions asking congress to pass the pure food bill now before congress.

This shows an earnest desire on the part of our representatives to protect their constituents.

Following is a partial list of the names of the brands that have been examined and found to contain either alum or ammonia: Calumet, Climax, Royal, Chicago Yeast, Forest City, Zipp's Economy, Taylor's, Unirated, Rocket, Globe, Silver Star, Eddy & Eddy's, Grant's Bon Bon, Hotel, Kenton, and many other brands.

Pure cream of tartar baking powders can be obtained. Many of the highest authorities have singled out and recommended Dr. Price's Cream baking powder for both purity and wholesomeness.

Mr. G. Thomas Relates an Experience That May be Starting to Many.

Truth is stranger than fiction, so runs the old saying, and no more appropriate illustration of it can be found than the facts given in the following sketch of a personal experience related to the writer by Mr. Thomas who said: "I have been quite an experience. For the past ten years my life has been one of constant suffering. This may seem strange, but it is a fact. I have been a sufferer from a chronic disease. My head and nose were constantly stopped up. I had ringing and buzzing noises in my ears and my nose of late and smell became very much impaired. My eyes were weak and watery and objects would blur before them; my head would constantly throb; there was a constant dripping of mucus into my throat which kept me snoring and raining a great deal of thick tenacious white matter.

My throat became dry, inflamed and sore. I had sharp pains under my shoulder blades. I felt all through my body. I seemed to take cold on the slightest exposure or change of weather. My appetite was variable, and what little I could eat would lie heavy on my stomach, and be followed by a sensation of distress and nausea. I slept sound but would arise feeling more tired than when I went to bed. I was in a truly miserable condition when I placed myself under the Montague treatment. I began to improve from the start and my disagreeable symptoms gradually disappeared. To make it short I am an entirely different man from what I was when I began this treatment. I owe my recovery to the Montague treatment and am glad to be able to make this statement.

Mr. Thomas' address is 322 West Walnut street, Des Moines, Iowa, and this statement can be easily verified by writing to him.

The other day a middle-aged man, comfortable and rosy as he leaned against the bar, was asked why he did not try Dr. Albee's gold-cure treatment.

"Cause I don't need it. I can stop whenever I want to. All a man has got to do to stop drinking is to say he'll quit and then stop his power," was his reply.

The idea is a good one, if it is as old as the hills, and, perhaps, only about once in a thousand times successfully carried out; but the other 999 cases need just what can be obtained with absolute certainty of the International Gold Cure Co., 250 Sheldon street, Grand Rapids, Mich.
